The real estate capital markets are finally back! Debt capital is plentiful for worthwhile projects as Wall Street securitization will grow four times this year. Several new funds are providing real estate loans. Multifamily agencies are aggressively lending and even the well capitalized banks are coming out of hibernation. Interest rates and advance rates are excellent. This improved lending market is increasing real estate values. Please join our panel of experts for an insightful discussion and learn how you can capitalize on this improving market.

Moderator: Neil Freeman, Chairman, Aries Capital and UDF

Panel: TBD
